Justice Griffin dies in Jackson

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Funeral services were held on Saturday for Mississippi State Supreme Court Justice J. Ruble Griffin, of Bay St. Louis, who died Thursday of cancer in a Jackson hospital.

Judge Griffin, 65, died at the Baptist Medical Center, where he had been treated for lung cancer for the past month.

His last visit to his Bay St. Louis home was three weeks ago according to Bay St. Louis attorney Sam Favre, who described him as a 'brother'.

Favre was a former law partner and had been a next door neighbor since 1967.

"I went to visit Ruble, who had cooked himself a big breakfast, while he was here three weeks ago. He was in good spirits and appeared to be doing fine," Favre said.

Griffin was named a Supreme Court justice by former Governor Bill Allain in July of 1986, following the retirement of Justice Neville Patterson, who did not seek re-election.

Judge Griffin won as the Democratic nominee for the Mississippi Supreme Court justice, Southern District, in June 1986, and was unopposed in the general election. His elected term of office was not to begin until January, 1, 1988.

Former Governor Bill Allain appointed Griffin as a Circuit Court judge for Hancock, Harrison and Hancock Counties in 1973, when Circuit Court Judge Harry Walker was elected to the State Supreme Court. Griffin was re-elected as Circuit Court Judge three times without an opponent.

Griffin was a native of Chickasaw County and grew up on a farm in Webster County.

A member of the paratroopers, he served overseas during World War II and was a member of the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 and the Theodore S. Price Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3253, both of Bay St. Louis.

A graduate of Wood Junior College, he received his law degree from Ole Miss in 1948.

Favre said Griffin and he had been friends in law school, and their friendship continued over the years. Griffin first practiced law in Eupora and was town attorney and elected Webster County prosecutor and also served as the county school board attorney.

He then served 10 years as an assistant state attorney general and became a law partner to Favre in 1965 when U.S. District Judge Dan M. Russell received his appointment to the bench.

"With a position open in the firm, as Judge Russell left, and since I kept up with Griffin over the years, he was the first person I contacted to become a partner," Favre said.

Favre continued, "In Bay St. Louis we were law partners, neighbors, fished together, and even shared our interests in gardening. I am going to miss a good friend."

Since becoming a Supreme Court justice, Griffin and his wife Ruth would spend the weekdays in Jackson and weekends in Bay St. Louis.

Griffin was active in the First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis.

Hancock County Sheriff Ronald Peterson said, "Judge Griffin was a real good friend with a brilliant legal mind and he never met a stranger."

Legion Pier bait shop proposal flounders

BY D.C. HARVILL

A Bay St. Louis man who had been attempting to get approval from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors to build a bait shop on the Washington Street Pier says, after being discouraged by the board's attorney, he will withdraw his proposal.

At the supervisors' meeting Wednesday, attorney Gerald Gex told Shawn Freidenstein it was improbable that he could get authorization to build the shop on the pier, also known as the American Legion Pier.

Gex explained that the county is leasing the pier from Bay St. Louis American Legion Post No. 139 for 25 years so improvements could be made to it using federal grant money.

Because the improvements currently being made, including paving of the pier roadway and parking lot and installation of lighting is being funded by a federal grant, the proposal would have to be approved by numerous state and federal agencies, according to Gex.

Gex also said he had been approached by a spokesman for beachfront residents who said they were opposed to the shop.

The proposal had been the center of a mild controversy in recent months, with some people arguing that competitive bidding procedures should be followed to determine who will operate a shop at the pier.

"One of the main reasons for putting the shop on the pier is to provide security. The crime and drugs have gotten so bad down there," Freidenstein said.

He estimates, based on statements of people who leave their cars parked at the pier after launching boats, that $100,000 in damage was caused to automobiles and trailers at the pier by vandals last year.

Freidenstein, who had operated a bait shop on Hancock Street in Bay St. Louis for several years, said the proposal has the blessing of both, the city and the American Legion and that residents he has spoken with expressed no such opposition.

Bay Mayor Victor Franciewicz Jr., on behalf of Freidenstein, presented the proposal to the board earlier this year.

"I have a good working relationship with the Legion, and do

ARREST

Bay St. Louis Police arrested a Hancock Medical Center employee Friday in connection with the Christmas Day theft of $9,500 in jewelry that was stolen from a woman's purse while she was visiting her mother at the hospital.

Regina Adolph, 27, of Bay St. Louis has been charged with grand larceny, according to Investigator Tom Burleson.

Eleanor Ruth Regan reported the jewelry missing after visiting her mother at the hospital. Reportedly, while her mother napped she stepped out of the room for about 10 minutes. When she returned she discovered that someone had stolen the jewelry from her handbag which she had left in the room, Burleson said.

Regan recovered some of the stolen items Wednesday in Adolph's possession. The remainder of the jewelry was recovered Friday.

Adolph is being held in Hancock County Jail in lieu of a $5,000 bond.

New Year's closings listed

BY D.C. HARVILL

Today is New Year's Day and a large percentage of the populace is on the road to recovery—recovery from the New Year's Eve ritual of debauchery. So surely no one will complain about Monday being a holiday. New Year's schedule changes include:

GOVERNMENT

Waveland City Hall will be closed Monday. Mondays garbage pickup will be Tuesday and Tuesdays will be on Wednesday.

Bay St. Louis City Hall will be closed Monday. There will be no change in garbage pickup. Hancock County Courthouse will be closed Monday.

BANKS

All local banks will be closed Monday.
The Sea Coast Echo will be closed Monday.

May everyone be fully recovered in time for Mardi Gras on February 3.

Side Street Crossings

By Dena Bisnette

New Year's Day 1989—Okay, let's start over, because we have a brand new year ahead of us and we can make it better than 1988 was.

One traditional way to make the new year better than the old one is making resolutions.

I was caught up in the hectic-ness of the holiday season, my first Christmas as a wife, trying to get everything done and still have a good time with a holiday that totally destroys a normal schedule. As a result, I didn't get a chance to do any research on how resolutions became a tradition.

Don't take it personally; my term paper will probably be late too, due to Christmas break.

Anyway, there's another New Year's tradition I don't have to do research on, because no one has ever officially named it a tradition. It comes right after New Year's Resolutions and is called "Breaking New Year's Resolutions."

I have my theories on how this unofficial tradition became established. It's the same reason that people go off diets, bet on horses when they really can't afford it and buy things they don't really need or want. It's lack of willpower.

Take, for example, the year I resolved to make my image at work more professional, yet more feminine. I got a "Dress for Success" suit at an after-Christmas sale and high-heeled shoes and some nail polish.

A couple hours in those dreadful shoes, running around a newspaper office calling everybody "sir" or "mister", killed that resolution. The suit jacket came off, the shoes were traded for a pair of flats that I'd thrown in the back seat of the car some time earlier, and I was yelling "Phone, Jim!" instead of politely saying, "Jim, dear, it's for you."

The nail polish chipped off during the evening board meeting and by the next day I was back into my preppy shirts and pants. One thing that really bugged me was that nobody had noticed my attempt at self-improvement, except Jim, who said, "Nice suit. Your mom give it to you for Christmas?"

At least he liked my taste in suits.

I've noticed that a lot of resolutions have something to do with self-improvement. Most of mine do. Maybe we're choosing the wrong category and that's why these little personal promises are so hard to keep.

Sometimes other people unwittingly help us break resolutions. A friend who wanted to quit smoking, for example, broke hers because she couldn't kick the habit with someone else at home who also smoked, even though she begged him to quit with her.

Another person I knew vowed to lose weight; the roommate who gave him two gallons of his favorite ice cream had no idea what damage he was doing.

Even pets don't help. Being the poor housekeeper that I am, I once resolved to make my bed every day. I had an apartment at the time and my little dog was left alone there eight to 10 hours a day when I was working. I made that bed every day until Jan. 7, and every day I came home to find Corky Scott relaxing in the middle of an unmade bed. I gave up.

The best solution I have found is to make 12 resolutions a year—one for each month. Just make the one for January on New Year's Eve and wait on the others, because if you make them too far ahead they might not be relevant to whatever is happening in your life at the time.

It's real easy to keep a resolution for 30 days, compared to keeping it for a year—particularly if it's the sort I make. So many of them are the same resolution I made this time last year.

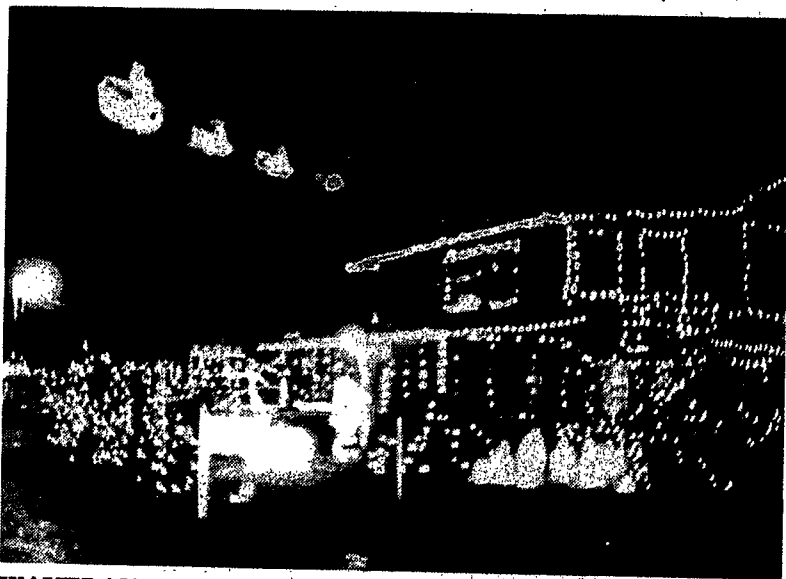

Being a female in the good old U.S.A., which still is not nearly as good to women as it is to men, a lot of my resolutions have something to do with improving my looks. I mean, Americans are such an appearance-conscious society, particularly with regard to women, that even the most gorgeous creatures can't be secure because they may go out of style tomorrow.

It ought not to be that way but it is. I've been kind of funny about the way I look ever since I walked into a television station and asked for a job. I was told I would never be an on-air reporter because I "didn't look right." They wanted this week's hairstyle on this week's pretty face and never mind what was missing inside the head.

Almost all of my resolutions regarding my looks have to do with improving my general health and are therefore no harm to self-esteem, but once in a while I resolve to do something better with my hair, clothes, cosmetics or whatever. I generally end up abandoning the idea the minute I price eye shadow or a new haircut. Can I help it that a perm costs about the same as my electric bill and I'd rather have the electricity?

There I go, breaking another resolution. Happy New Year and good luck keeping yours.

their rodeo each year. I don't want to jeopardize that, so I'm bowing out gracefully so those guys don't have to go through what I've had to," Freidenstein said.

Since a live bait dealer must have an operable shop and boat before he can acquire the proper licenses, Freidenstein said he would not have time to get authorization and build the shop in time for the April licensing deadline.

"We are still in support of a shop that sells bait and tackle only. The security it would provide would be an advantage to everybody," said Post No. 139 Commander Henry Prevou.

"Shawn came up with the suggestion and we approved it, but we've leased it to the county and if they don't want a bait shop then that will be it, that is where it will end."

"Whether or not there is a bait shop there, something has to be done to clean the place up and I will continue working with the Legion to do that," Freidenstein said.

Saturday morning Freidenstein purchased a lot on the beach side of Beach Boulevard at the head of Main Street and intends to build a bait shop based on the plans he had drawn for the one proposed for the pier.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The year 1988 ends on a sad note for myself and many Hancock Countians with the death of Mississippi Supreme Court Justice J. Ruble Griffin.

Judge Griffin came to Bay St. Louis in 1965 to become a partner in the law firm of Russell and Favre when U.S. District Court Judge Dan M. Russell was appointed.

He blended right into the community and became actively involved in professional, business, civic and church activities.

So many folks referred to Judge Griffin as a friend to everyone, as no one was a stranger to him.

He served Hancock, Harrison and Stone Counties as a Circuit Court judge for 13 years and left his mark on law enforcement throughout the area.

Law officers, court officials and even defendants had a special feeling for Judge Griffin, as he had a special feeling for everyone, no matter their station in life.

He looked down on no one, was fair to everyone, had compassion for all, and was willing to help anyone. Judge Griffin enjoyed life, like he wanted everyone else to do.

I can remember attending the open house of the State Work Release Facility in Harrison County several years ago with him. The inmates were all happy to see and talk to him. Many of them had appeared in court before him for sentencing.

A tradition of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club was for Judge Griffin to do the honors of installing the officers and directors for many years.

He really enjoyed this chore, and we all enjoyed having him because of his wit and roast of several of us, especially the incoming president.

As a matter of fact, Judge Griffin was a past president of the Bay Rotary Club and was an honorary club member.

He was scheduled to have been with us for our Annual Christmas Party on December 15, but was unable to attend because of failing health.

A great citizen and friend we have lost, but the fruits of his many good works will be with us for years to come.

To his wife, Mrs. Ruth, son, John and daughter, Martha Thompson, I offer my deepest condolences and pray that God will be with each of you in your time of loss.

RECIPE FOR A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

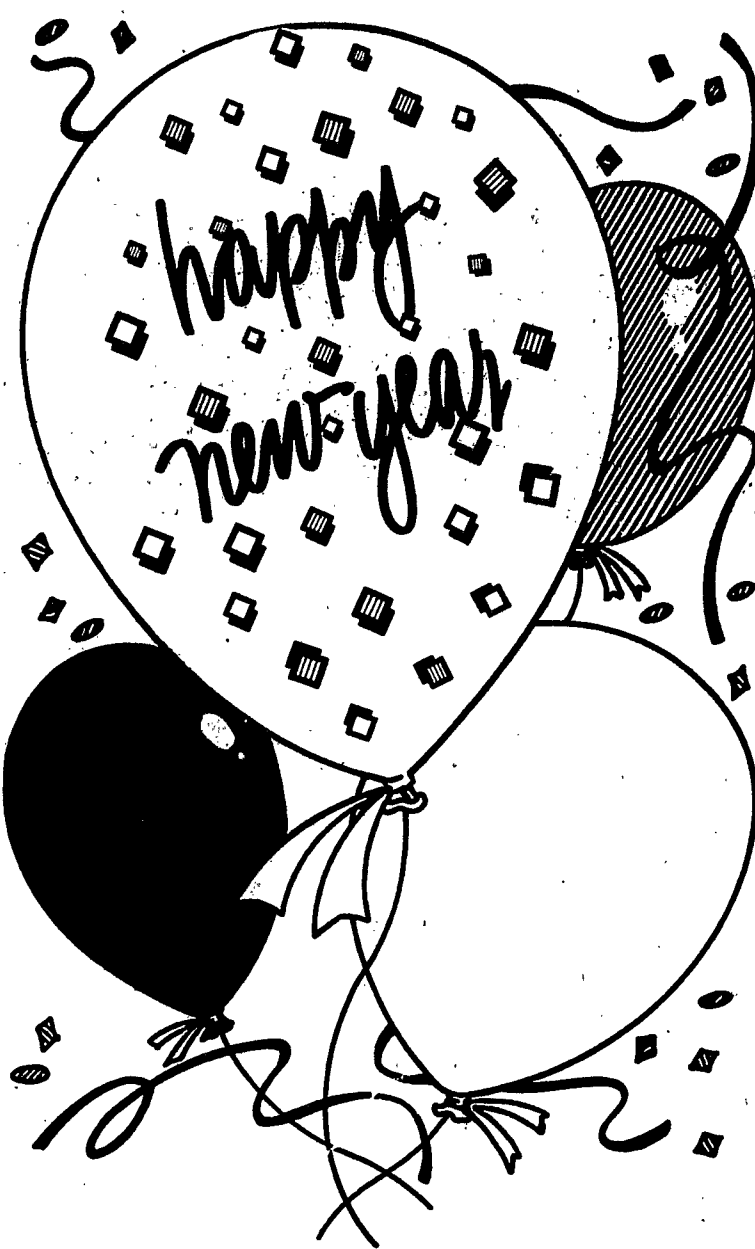

Take twelve, fine full-grown months, see that these are thoroughly free from all old memories of bitterness, anger, hate and jealousy; cleanse them completely from every clinging spite; pick off all specks of pettiness and littleness; in short, see that these months are freed from all the past—have them as fresh and clean as when they first came from the great storehouse of Time.

Cut these months into thirty or thirty-one equal parts. This batch will keep for just one year. Do not attempt to make up the whole batch at one time (so many persons spoil the entire lot in this way), but prepare one day at a time, as follows:

Into each day put twelve parts of faith, eleven of patience, ten of courage, nine of work (some people omit this ingredient and so spoil the flavor of the rest), eight of hope, seven of fidelity, six of liberality, five of kindness, four of rest (leaving this out is like leaving the oil out of the salad—don't do it), three of prayer, two of meditation, and one well selected resolution.

If you have no conscientious scruples, put in about a teaspoonful of good spirits, a dash of fun, a pinch of folly, a sprinkling of play, and a heaping cupful of good humor.

Pour into the whole love as libitum and mix with vim. Cook thoroughly in a fervent heat; garnish with a few smiles and a sprig of joy; then serve with quietness, unselfishness, and cheerfulness, and a Happy New Year is a certainty.

Public industrial attitude contributes to community success

Special to the Echo
By "TALLEY" RAYBORN

Today those of us who make our living at Industrial Development or Economic Development, if you prefer, feel that it is the most competitive business in the world. For every industry that is anticipating expansion or a new location, there are thousands of communities that would like to have that industry locate with them.

Many communities are working hard, spending large sums of money and traveling all over the world to find new industrial prospects. Industry goes where they are invited and where there has existed for a long time good industrial, community and people relations.

Industry likes a community with a reputation for good, hard-working, honest, Christian people. Often the first question asked by an industrial prospect is how many churches do you have, and how well are they attended?

The second question asked is how many people are on welfare and how long have they been on welfare? Have they been offered jobs and preferred welfare?

What is the attitude of Black people toward White and vice versa; and what is their attitude toward work? Would they rather earn a living, or has their pride so deteriorated that they had rather someone give them a living?

Have you had any local legal attitude toward this kind of case and if we should locate in your community should we fear being sued for causes unavoidable?

In most instances where this line of questioning is pursued, you can rest assured the prospect has heard something he didn't like and he is trying to say in a nice way he will not be back.

Industry goes where it is invited, stays, expands and pays good wages where it is well treated. Industry, like any business, must make a profit and no employee benefits can be expected until a profit is made. Money must first be in hand before it can be passed on from industry, business, individuals or whomever. Every unit must stand on its own. Money or profits from one location cannot be taken to pay deficits in another location for long.

As we look at 1989, let us look at our business and industry as our lifeblood, because without them we are dead. Work and good planning build a good economic environment for everyone. Laziness and an idle mind are the devil's workshop and lead to crime and criminals.

When we boast about our community, we are helping. When we join or enter into a fight with one part of the county against another, we are cutting our own throats and industry moves elsewhere. If we cannot get along with others, industry will not come here. Competition is good for all of us; but jealousy, envy, and hate blinds even the best eyes.

Make this your Prayer for 1989

O Lord God, before the day's work begins, I turn to Thee. Keep me from becoming tense, bored or absent-minded. Even though others may feel that my work is insignificant and lowly, may I at least feel that there is dignity and meaning in what I do.

I thank Thee for the strength that is in my body, the skill that is in my hands, and for the knowledge that is in my brain. Help me today and every day to cooperate with my fellow workers and to earn my wages. May I come to the end of my day of labor with no regrets, knowing that I have faithfully carried out my duties.

Looking ahead at the 1989 Legislative Session

Economic development, government reorganization, delivery of health care services, and continued improvement of the state's educational system are likely to be among the big issues facing lawmakers in the 1989 regular session of the Mississippi Legislature.

The allocation of funds for state agencies, institutions and public schools will be a primary concern, as usual, in the 90-day session starting at noon Tuesday, January 3. Revenue collections have been running higher than originally projected over recent months, but it appears money still will be tight as legislators move into the second year of the four-year term.

Scores of bills and resolutions already have been prefiled for consideration during the packed session slated to end by April 2.

Before the final gavel is rapped, legislators may find themselves wrestling with such wide-ranging matters as strengthening the state's felony child abuse law, reducing the statute of limitations for damage suits, development of a statewide housing plan, creation of a health-care insurance pool to help otherwise uninsured citizens, tax relief for churches, establishing a full-time State Parole Board, and the continuing problems of drug abuse, AIDS, and prison crowding.

Separate budget proposals have been prepared by the Joint Legislative Budget Committee and the Governor's Office for the fiscal year which begins July 1, 1989. A final decision on these recommendations will be in the hands of the 122 members of the House of Representatives and 52 members of the Senate.

Basically, the Legislative Budget Committee's proposals might be characterized as a "continuation" budget to meet essential needs without raising taxes, and provide priority funding in such key areas as public schools and economic development. At least modest increases also would be provided for institutions of higher education, community/junior colleges, Medicaid, mental health, and the Department of Corrections.

The Budget Committee's recommendations for general fund expenditures in Fiscal Year 1990 amount to a record-high $1.865 billion, an increase of nearly $60 million over the current FY 1989 budget. The budget proposed by Governor Ray Mabus calls for general fund spending of $1.907 billion and involves some additional sources of income including the use of certain "special" funds to pay for recurring expenses, higher investment proceeds on idle monies, and part of the savings which the Governor contends could result from his governmental reorganization plan.

While they differ in several aspects, there are a number of similarities between the budget proposals submitted by the Legislative Budget Committee and the Governor. Both would fund the teacher pay raises authorized in the 1988 legislative session, expand Medicaid funding, and make more money available for economic development efforts under the revamped Department of Economic Development.

And, both are designed to maintain current programs without a general tax hike in the coming year.

One of the hottest topics of the session may be the modified reorganization plan unveiled by the Governor this fall, including a controversial proposal to close the state-supported charity hospitals at Meridian, Laurel and Vicksburg. Under the proposal, more than $6 million derived by closing the facilities would be used to further bolster the Medicaid program for needy patients. The recommendation already has caused spirited discussion between opponents and proponents.

Eleven major departments would be established under the Governor's reorganization plan - Finance and Administration; Revenue; Economic and Community Development; Public Safety; Human Services; Health; Mental Health; Corrections; Cultural Affairs; Wildlife Conservation, Forestry and Parks; and Environmental Quality. The director of each department would be appointed by the Governor, subject to Senate confirmation.

Special interim committees were named in the House of Representatives and Senate to study the recommendations and present their findings to the 1989 sessions.

Interim House committees also have been looking at several other matters in preparation for the session including the widely discussed issue of tort reform; a compulsory automobile liability insurance law; voter registration; possible revisions in certain state revenue statutes; the public employees' retirement program; the Variable Compensation Plan for payment of state employees; and the complex question of sovereign immunity for state and local governments, a longstanding doctrine used in the past to protect governmental entities from costly damage suits. A law calling for a limited waiver of immunity is due to take effect next year unless legislators vote to delay its implementation.

The Environmental Protection Council, a joint legislative committee created in the 1988 session, has been making an in-depth study into methods for handling disposal of hazardous waste generated in the state.

A special task force on housing, authorized earlier this year, has recommended passage of a landlord-tenant law and called for creation of a non-profit housing corporation to develop a statewide housing plan.

Several bills involving education are expected to be awaiting legislators' scrutiny in the 1989 session, including some type of equity financing plan for rural school districts and funding for a statewide remediation program. The State Board of Education has adopted a multi-phased legislative program for the coming year, and the Governor has indicated he will ask for a package of education proposals.

Another effort may be made in 1989 to pass a constitutional convention bill, although a similar measure failed during the 1988 session. Most legislators agree some revisions are needed in the State Constitution, but have differed on whether the changes should be handled by the amendment process or in a full-blown state convention.

Several resolutions have been prefiled in the House calling for constitutional amendments. Any constitutional changes approved by the Legislature would then be submitted to the people in a state referendum before taking effect.

All told, it promises to be an interesting, challenging session.

Extension Service charts Hancock Progress

The Cooperative Extension Service is a unique achievement in American education. It is an agency for change, a catalyst for individual and group action with a history of nearly 70 years of public service.

Cooperative Extension is a vast partnership made up of local residents, the state land-grant universities, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and county governments throughout the nation. All these groups share in planning, financing, and operating Extension programs.

Extension's job is education. The service transmits practical information produced by research centers and universities to the public. Extension's aim is to help people identify and solve problems, many times through the use of new technology.

Extension programs are designed to help fulfill local and state needs. Yet these programs are flexible enough to accommodate national objectives. More than 240 group meetings, workshops, seminars, field days, tours and exhibits were conducted, teaching 19,659 county residents. In addition, monthly newsletters, radio spots, weekly news releases were utilized to reach an additional 5,000 county residents.

(* These figures are a combination of all Ag, 4-H, and Home Economic programs and contacts made).

Hancock County officers are Lee Taylor, county agent; Darlene Underwood, Extension home economist; and Ethel Favre, secretary.

Agriculture

Submitted by Lee Taylor, county agent

Agriculture continues to be an important part of Hancock County's economy. Income from agriculture in 1987 totaled $6,294,341. Committees in beef, swine, dairy, forage and Farmers Market assist in planning programs for agriculture for the county.

Forestry

Timber is the number one agricultural crop in the county with about 65 percent of the land in forestry. We realize the economic importance of forestry to Hancock County. We estimate that by providing proper management to forest land, we could see an increase from 2.3 million dollars of timber sold in 1987 to $4 million by 1992.

In order to help make landowners become more aware of this valuable resource in 1987-88, a forestry mailing list was developed, educational meetings were held, and many farm visits were made.

Information on tree farming, tax benefits, timber stand improvements and management has been presented at crop production and animal science meetings in an effort to offer our farmers income alternatives for the entire farm unit.

At this time demonstration plots are being set up on three different producers' farms to test new forestry herbicides. These herbicides reduce competition from undesirable plant species and make pine stands more valuable.

Pork Production

In 1988, area pork producers sold 31,662 pigs for $891,558. Of this amount Hancock County producers sold 1,547 pigs for $45,022.

The feeder pig enterprise lends itself to income opportunities for all interested producers, especially the low-income farmer. Our educational programs are aimed at a "common sense" approach to management and efficiency in order for producers to make a profit.

Beef Production

Hancock County has one of the largest cattlemen's association in the state. Our membership in 1987 was 225. In 1986 the association won a squeeze chute in a statewide contest. This award was based upon our increased membership. This chute is valued at $2,000.

Attendance at our cattle meetings are running 150-175. Educational information has been presented on insect/parasite control, nutrition, and animal health. This year we have five educational meetings for producers. Equipment for working cattle is located in the northern and southern parts of the county. This equipment can be rented for a low cost by membership of the cattlemen's association.

Commercial Vegetables

The Farmers Market continues to function at the County Fairgrounds. There were no problems encountered and the quality of the produce sold was good.

Crowds are running about the same as last year. Income for the market has decreased due to weather conditions. Income produced for farmers runs $30,000-$40,000 per year for the market.

Through Coast area county extension staffs and our area horticulturist a new farmers market was established at Biloxi. This market is for bona fide farmers in the six Coast counties and excludes peddlers. Some farmers have reported taking in $400-$500 in one Saturday morning. The market is located adjacent to the Edgewater Mall.

Home Vegetable Gardening

With some unemployment in the county and the depressed economy, a home garden is necessary for many countians. The medium size for a home garden nationwide is 600 square feet with an average retail income of $470. Our climate in Hancock County allows our clientele to have fresh produce 10-12 months out of the year.

Forage Production

We have approximately 18,000 acres of pastures in Hancock County. More acres are being converted from row-crop land to pastures. We have 3-5 producers with established fields of the new hybrid bermudagrass, Tifton 78. The commercial hay business is still a good income for several producers.

Harris Ladner submitted four samples to the State Chemical Lab for testing. Ladner also followed our recommendations in fertilizing his commercial hay crop. He was able to cut hay off the fields four times as Extension recommends.

Ladner received information on protein content, crude fiber and the digestibility of his hay samples. This information was then compared against the state average. In some samples it was higher than the state average. Ladner was able to use this information selling his hay. Now, every time he cuts hay his customers pick it up in the fields and he never has to touch it. Other producers are also using these services.

Entomology

For the second year new insecticides to combat the destructive mole cricket have been tested in Hancock County. A scientific study was conducted at the Diamondhead Golf Course to determine the effectiveness of four insecticides. The materials were Oflanol, Tempo, Orthene and Sevin XLR.

Results of the study were given to the golf course superintendent. Information gained will save several thousand dollars. Similar studies were done in Harrison and Jackson counties by extension personnel.

New Technology

Hancock County was selected to receive training through the Extension Farm and Family Financial Crisis Program. I received training in analyzing the financial situation of a particular farm and what steps could be taken to assist the farmer or family. An IBM compatible computer and printer were obtained for the county office through this program. Computer programs are available here in the office to help organize and analyze farm data. We are now assisting one county farmer with financial planning with this program. Office operation will eventually be transferred to this new computer.

Extension Home Economist

Submitted by Darlene Underwood

Major home economics activities in 1987-88 included:

- 1) 161 educational programs were conducted in home economics subject matter with a total participation of 2,534.
- 2) 73 local community programs were conducted by Extension-trained volunteer leaders, primarily Extension Homemakers' Club leaders.
- 3) Information in home economics and family living was provided to individuals and other organizations, including 1,500 given individual assistance.

4) Direction was given to six local Extension Homemakers' Clubs through training of officers and leaders. These leaders provided training to 88 homemakers monthly.

5) Monthly newsletters were written to 360 local residents. Newspaper articles, radio spots, public displays, exhibits, and bulletin distribution were also used to complement the Home Economic educational thrust.

Textiles and Clothing

There was a renewed interest in home sewing for both economic and personal reasons among homemakers. Classes for adult beginners and updated techniques for the average home seamstress, were conducted. The average wardrobe is worth $3,000.

Since women purchase almost all clothes worn by family members, classes on clothing selection techniques were taught to adults and teenagers. Local residents followed a national trend of focusing on personal appearance and development and were anxious to take advantage of workshops on these topics. A total of 486 attended 36 programs taught in textiles and clothing.

Food, Nutrition and Health

As food prices continue to escalate, interest has increased in programs in nutrition, food buying, preparation, storage, and food preservation. Four hundred participated in 25 programs on these topics. Also, this is the major area of requests for individual assistance and bulletins.

Nutrition classes have been taught at Stennis Space Center for employed homemakers. Classes taught through the County Health Department and WIC Distribution Center have benefited the low-income elderly and young families.

Leadership Development

Ninety volunteers, representing six community clubs, serve Hancock County through the Extension Homemakers' organization. These volunteers donated in time, tenure and tasks more than $15,000 annually to improve Hancock County.

The Extension Homemakers' Club is an organization that provides continuing education in home economics for adults to help them improve their life styles, as well as developing leadership capabilities and becoming informed citizens on public issues.

Child and Family Life

The family is the most effective and economical system for rearing children and nurturing adults. Strengthening Mississippi families so they develop decision making and management skills, acquire self confidence and become responsible satisfied members of society is a sound investment in our state's future.

Family instability profoundly affects every aspect of our society now and in the future. The number of one-parent families more

— AT LARGE —

CITY OF BAY ST. LOUIS
TUESDAY, JANUARY 17, 1989

*We must continue to upgrade our educational system so that we are second to none. It is imperative to the future success of our children;

*We must combat the evil elements of crime and drugs with every resource at our disposal to make our city safe for everyone;

*We must take the necessary action, through PRIDE or PENALTY, to promote a cleaner, attractive city;

*We must continue to provide and promote better recreational facilities for our citizens, especially our youth;

*We must augment our tourist trade with small, clean businesses to provide employment for our residents;

*We must promote cultural awareness and facilities in the area.

I want to provide the leadership, good planning, positive thinking and cooperation needed, so that Bay Saint Louis will be the ideal place to live and rear a family.

I believe we can do the above things, thus improving the quality of life for our citizens, and still stay within the present budget structure.

I have a plan of action to encourage public awareness, involvement, and the expertise of our citizens to meet our future needs in providing the best administration possible. As your Councilman, I will SEEK and EXPRESS YOUR views.

Anyone wishing to assist in my campaign, may refer to my Election Committee at P.O. Box 2063, Bay St. Louis, or contact me personally.

Reflections

God's advertisements 1989

By Father Jerome LeDoux

IBM describes a capability of God's reign which secular kingdoms dare not even dream of: "Tying people together is the best way to set them free."

Sears Roebuck batteries admires the dependability of that reign: "It's more than a name. It's a promise."

Unum Life Insurance Company endorses the basic motto of the children in God's kingdom: "Where we come from, you never forget people make a difference."

Time magazine assesses the basic necessity of membership in this special kingdom: "There is no substitute."

The master of the earthly word, Webster's dictionary admires the unearthly, transcendent power of God's word, the Good News of the kingdom: "More people take our word for it."

Toyota is amazed at what happens when people invest their lives and commit themselves to the goals, principles and resources of God's reign: "A quick return for your investment."

Merit filter parrots the same information and advice for anyone considering investment in the kingdom: "Get enriched quick."

Not to be outdone in giving advice, Century 21 real estate gives us the bottom line on investment in God's reign: "Return on investment. The best-kept secret in the investment world."

"It's the right thing to do," quaker Oatmeal agrees concerning the commitment of oneself to the kingdom.

The reign of God is our vehicle on this earthly sojourn. Subaru compares this vehicle to loading their own vehicle with yourself and with those who are near and dear to you:

"Before you go on a trip, put your valuables in a safe place."

IBM states plainly the desirability of exploring what the reign of God can do for you: "One solution to three of your biggest needs: power, affordability, compatibility."

Mastercard warns us not to delay in casting our lot with the kingdom: "Choose now to make a difference."

Debtors we were born and debtors of sorts we remain throughout life, but Hyundai gives credit to the kingdom: "Debt end."

Chrysler First financial corporation advises us that the heavenly kingdom is taking calls from us here in God's kingdom on earth: "Call and reserve a room. We finance life's opportunities."

Accord LX Honda has its own lyrical description of the freedom and wonder of the kingdom: "O beautiful for spaciousness!"

Of all the doors open to us in life, Toyota points to the door of God's kingdom as the one opportunity which we must not miss: "This door leads to a different world."

Smith Corona reminds the world that God's reign accepts people of any status, skilled or unskilled, and gives them full benefits: "Our frills require no skills."

Diners Club International admits that the children of the kingdom have the greatest advantage: "At your service worldwide."

Avis observes that the members of God's reign do not take spreading the Good News for granted: "We're trying harder than ever."

United air lines has just two words for Jesus, our brother and leader in his Father's kingdom: "Sky King."

Princess Cruises gives a mysterious description of our sojourn here which will carry us through the earthly to the heavenly kingdom: "The ultimate passage through the ultimate passage."

Chrysler Motors sums up what the children of God's reign want to do in the world: "We just want to be the best."

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Blue Jeans Garden Club

Twenty-one members and nine guests were present when the Blue Jeans Garden Club celebrated with a Christmas luncheon and party at the Diamondhead Country Club Restaurant Thursday, Dec. 15.

Following a brief welcoming address by president Dot Feaheny, who also read 'A Christmas Blessing,' introduced guests Muriel Jackson, Gloria Treadaway, Lorraine Norton, Esther Russell, Alice Brechtel, Jo Ann Lagasse, Rose Gasser, Angie Faulstich and Pheny Palermo.

Adding to the spirit of Christmas, love and friendship, Blue Jeans member Mary Danna read a lovely short verse by Claire Temple.

"Don't walk before me—I may not follow.

Don't walk behind me—I may not lead.

Just walk beside me—and be my friends."

One of the highlights of each Christmas luncheon and party is the installation of officers for the new year. The 1989 officers re-elected to serve a second term were president, Dot Feaheny; vice-president, Annabelle Cox (standing in for Annabelle who was unable to attend due to illness was Phil Lagasse); secretary, Margaret Heitzmann; and treasurer, Cathleen Taconi. The installation officer presented each officer with a lovely Christmas corsage.

Highlight of the luncheon and party was the awarding of the coveted first place award, the 'Silver Bowl' by awards chairlady Gladys Goodloe to first place winner Beulah Peterson, who won the most points during the year in the monthly competition among members.

Second place winner Virginia Thomas and third place winners—a tie—Joyce Hicks and Beverly Coogan were each presented a lovely Christmas plant by awards committee chairlady Betty Klein who also gave an impromptu inspirational pep talk to the members.

President Feaheny thanked everyone who contributed to the success of festivities including party chairladies Jennie Ortis and Mary Dana and the ladies responsible for the lovely table decorations that were later used as door prizes—Margaret Heitzmann, Beverly Coogan and Annabelle Cox.

Lucky winners of the door prizes were Beverly Coogan, Lorraine Norton, Asa Brechtel, Betty Klein and Phil Lagasse.

than doubled between 1970 and 1985, adding emotional and financial stress on the complex job of parenting. Youth are increasingly vulnerable to influences outside the family as well as disruptions within.

There are four issues currently critical in the child development and family life disciplines.

- * Family disruptions and dislocation
- * Vulnerable youth
- * Children At Risk
- * Responsibility for dependent elderly

Extension's goal in addressing the issue of "Children At Risk" is to develop and deliver educational programs for young families; for people who deal with policy issues related to parental care; and professional caregivers to promote adequate care and guidance of children.

Hancock County has been selected for a pilot program of teaching parenting and child development for abusive parents identified by the State Department of Public Welfare. The first six lesson series will begin in January of 1989. In addition caregivers training will be provided to all child care facility personnel in the county by August 1989.

This year stress management, communication skills, self-esteem, child development and parenting skills were taught to

4-H Youth Development

Even though we currently have no 4-H agent the 4-H program continues in Hancock County. There are 12 4-H volunteers in the county and five organized 4-H Clubs.

4-H offers an out-of-classroom learning opportunity where youth may become enrolled in any of 60 projects. Programs have been given in ecology, safety, animal science, home economics and many others.

Youth in Hancock County participated in State 4-H Club Congress, District Achievement Day, Shooting Sports, Livestock Judging and District training sessions. 4-Hers showed livestock at Hattiesburg, Jackson and in county shows in Pearl River and Perry counties. Horse enthusiasts showed at the District Show, State Show in Jackson, and Regional Show in Baton Rouge.

County 4-Hers have participated in community pride projects such as painting litter barrels, cleaning litter from roadsides and food baskets for shut-ins.

Hancock County 4-H is a United Way recipient and this really helps us with fund raising.

CREATIVE LIFESTYLING: CONSTRUCTING YOUR SELF AS A WORK OF ART
Stephen Southern, Ed.D.
Sex and Marital Therapist
Wednesday, January 4/7 to 9 PM

Creativity is an essential ingredient in health and life satisfaction. Many adults feel "stuck" because they are no longer developing at home, on the job, or in intimate relationships. This workshop will help you find solutions to the problems of daily life. You will learn how to develop your self as nature's true work of art. The use of dreams, fantasies, and "planned surprises" will be explored as a means for enhancing marital and family life and career.

SMART COOKIES DON'T CRUMBLE
Sue W. Reeves, M.Ed.
Thursday, January 5/NOON

A review on the self-help book, Smart Cookies Don't Crumble, by Sonya Friedman. If you attend, you'll discover how to unscramble your life, remove the "cloak of inferiority," create your own second chances and establish stronger relationships. When you realize your own power to shape your life, you'll be happier, more independent, more assertive, more attractive. You'll be — ONE SMART COOKIE!

EARLY MAMMOGRAPHY AND BREAST SELF EXAM BENEFITS
Monday, January 9/NOON

Early detection is the KEY to success in the battle against breast cancer. Mammograms can detect tumors up to three years before they can be found by a physical exam. Along with mammography, breast self examination (BSE) is of vital importance. Early detection gives you a choice between major surgery (mastectomy) or minor surgery (lumpectomy). Free information on the mammography procedure and classes on BSE, taught by a trained nurse, are offered in this session. The Breast Diagnostic Center at SMH offers routine baseline mammograms for $59 (includes Radiologist's Professional Fee). THIS EDUCATION IS A MUST FOR WOMEN OF ALL AGES.

All classes are free and are held in the Women's Resource Suite.

Diamondhead Garden Club

The Diamondhead Garden Club held its annual Christmas luncheon at the Community Center Wednesday, Dec. 21.

Santa Claus himself arrived on a bright red motor scooter to greet everyone with a very special "Ho, ho, ho."

Before lunch, a floor show was presented by Marion Kolbasch, litter control chairman, titled 'Keep Mississippi Beautiful.'

The first model, Brierly Ackerly, was called 'Miss Kiln-DeLisle Road,' and was dressed in apparel that is usually found along our roadsides, as trash and litter of all sorts decorated her costume from top to bottom.

Next came Nine Cotton, who portrayed 'Miss Leod Park,' and she too was wearing what closely resembled trash and litter often found in our public parks, discarded paper plates and paper cups.

Next came Scott Wallace to portray 'Mr. Stash the Trash,' who looked like a walking trash pile himself. Two young ladies, Lenore and Michelle Madden, appeared next, typifying 'Trashed Statue of Liberty.' With the torch trashed and the remainder of their costumes in complete disarray, they gave a graphic picture of what a dreadful thing it would be if our own Statue of Liberty should fall into the hands of vandals.

As the models displayed their costumes, Marion, as commentator, gave a description of each, comparing their costumes to the conditions we find along our roadsides, parks and other public places. Then, lo!...the models disappeared for a few moments, only to reappear in lovely garments, typifying what we would all like to see and know to be necessary to 'Keep Mississippi Beautiful.'

The singing of Christmas songs followed, led by Johnnie Boatright with Gert Wadington at the piano.

Each club member had been asked to bring a gift for a shut-in. Prize for the most uniquely wrapped gift went to Marilyn Wild, with Elinor Donahue, runner-up. Nancy Schuback, Christmas lighting chairman, had chosen the following as winners: first place, on Diamondhead Drive East, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tresch; second place, on Maui Circle, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wakefield; third place, on Analii Drive, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Corales.

Club president Betty Claggett made a few announcements, most important of which was that there will be an executive board meeting at 2 p.m. at her home Jan. 11.

Pass Christian Garden Club

Mrs. Judith Toups, author of 'Birds and Birding on the Mississippi Gulf Coast,' columnist, The Sun Herald, and elective member, American Bridging Association, will be guest speaker at the Pass Christian Garden Club meeting on Jan. 5 at 11 a.m. in the Hancock Bank Civic Center.

On Jan. 12, Pass Christian Garden Club will stage a craft and flower show workshop at the Hancock Bank Civic Center from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1-3 p.m. A speaker will be announced later.

Bay-Waveland Coast Guard Auxiliary Flotilla 33

This has been a most active year for the Coast Guard Auxiliary here. Flotilla 33 has received the Coast Guard Award for operations. This includes, among other activities, more than 600 hours of Coast Guard support missions and patrols.

"Flotilla Awards Night" was held in conjunction with the annual Christmas party Dec. 20. Coast Guard Division Captain Wesley Castaneda of Pass Christian installed new officers and members for the coming year.

Dick Alves is new flotilla commander and Bob Simino is vice-commander.

Because of training courses held during the year, Frank Hopper of Bay St. Louis has recently joined, and we expect several others to come aboard before the end of the year.

Plans for 1989 include several of the safe boating courses, with the first one being held as early as February. It is not too early for anyone interested to contact Dick Alves at 255-7172.

Veterans World War I Auxiliary

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans World War I, USA No. 2537 was held at the American Legion Home, Bay St. Louis on Dec. 22.

The meeting was called to order by president Lois Fallo, with opening prayer by Chaplain Kathy Adam, followed by Pledge of Allegiance.

A motion was made and carried to dispense with the regular business in order for the group to socialize and enjoy the Christmas season.

Following carols, the members enjoyed an exchange of gifts. A lovely meal was enjoyed by all, the table having been beautifully decorated with small fresh Christmas trees.

The next meeting will be Jan. 26, 1989 and eligible members are invited to join.

Gymnastics exhibition scheduled January 5

Mayor Victor Frankiewicz will officially open the Bay St. Louis Academy of Gymnastics with a free-to-the-public exhibition on Jan. 5.

The gymnastics exhibition will begin at 4 p.m. at the Valena C. Jones gymnasium on Old Spanish Trail.

The gymnastics program will be directed by Charlie Pond, retired Professor Emeritus from the University of Illinois, former U.S. Olympic coach and U.S. National coach in gymnastics and freestyle skiing. His teams won 11 big ten consecutive championships and four NCAA team championships.

He coached boys and girls to be members of U.S. Olympic teams, among whom were Olympians Abie and Muriel Grossfeld, Sharon Richardson and Don Tonry. Pond assisted Dick Mulvihill with Linda Metheny and Tracey Tolliver and Julie McNamara of the 1984 U.S. Olympic Team.

Gymnastics classes for boys and girls, six years and up will begin in January. Students may register at the exhibition or receive information by calling 467-2724.

Bay-Waveland Jaycees

The newly reorganized chapter of Bay-Waveland Jaycees can be proud of many accomplishments, according to Clark Breland, chapter president.

"Even though we're new, we've made significant contributions to the community," Breland said. "Our chapter has participated in several charitable events," noted Breland, "including a bake sale to benefit the Mississippi Lung Association; a Hancock County Heart Fund golf tournament; donations to the Food Pantry; and a March of Dimes walkathon."

The Jaycee program is designed to involve young men and women in community, civic, government, business and individual areas, increasing leadership skills and personal development.

During 1988, the Bay-Waveland chapter invited several distinguished persons in local government to speak to the members for 'Government Night.' Speakers included Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz, Mississippi State Representative J. P. Compretta, Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson as well as a number of other local officials.

This past summer, the Bay-Waveland Jaycees participated in the Waveland Centennial celebration by hosting a children's fishing rodeo with prizes and awards.

In the fall, the Jaycees held a Junior Football Bowl and Junior Queen contest at Bay High field. All children playing the bowl received a Jaycee tee-shirt as well as trophies and awards.

"The most important part of being a Jaycee is having fun and enjoying the community," stated Breland.

"Our fun projects included a Halloween dance with 'Frankie and the Cruisers,' riding in the Bay St. Louis Christmas parade and holding several parties, dinners and membership drive nights to enjoy friends, family members and other Jaycees," said Breland.

The Bay-Waveland Jaycees invite all interested young adults to join them at 547 St. John Street, Bay St. Louis on Wednesdays, 7:30 p.m.

LEGAL NOTICE

ORDER OPENING SHRIMPING SEASON IN CERTAIN AREAS
WHEREAS, shrimp season north of the Intracoastal waterway set to close January 1, 1989 by the provisions set forth in Section 49-15-15 (b) of the Mississippi Code of 1972 Annotated, and
WHEREAS, Section 49-15-15 (b) of the Mississippi Code of 1972 Annotated also provides that the Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation, by majority vote, may open the season at an earlier date in designated areas only after sampling areas within its jurisdiction where shrimp may be caught for the purpose of determining the count of shrimp per pound, and
WHEREAS, the Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation, by majority vote ordered that certain areas north of the Intracoastal waterway be opened to shrimp when sampling indicates shrimp in those areas to be larger than sixty-eight (68) shrimp per pound, and
WHEREAS, sampling was conducted in an area north of the Intracoastal waterway, and were found to be larger than sixty-eight (68) shrimp per pound, now
By virtue of the authority vested in the Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation under the provisions of Section 49-15-15 (b) of the Mississippi Code of 1972 Annotated, the Mississippi Commission on Wildlife Conservation does hereby declare and order that:
All waters north of the Intracoastal waterway and south of a line beginning one-half mile offshore at the Mississippi-Alabama state line; thence westerly following the meanderings of the shoreline one-half mile therefrom to Light "7" in the Bayou Casotte Channel; thence northwesterly to the intersection of the Pascagoula Channel; thence northwesterly to Beacon "44" in the Pascagoula Channel; thence southwesterly to Beacon "45" in the Pascagoula Channel; thence to the northeast point of the mud lump located south of Ingalls West Bank Shipyard; thence westerly along the north shoreline to the northwest point of said mud lump; thence northwesterly to a point one-half mile due south of the mouth of Graveline Bayou; thence westerly following the meanderings of the shoreline one-half mile therefrom to Beacon "18" in the Biloxi Bay Channel; thence northwesterly to Beacon "22" in the Biloxi Bay Channel; thence northwesterly to Beacon "30" in the Biloxi Bay Channel; thence westerly to Beacon "34" (exclusive of the Biloxi Channel faul); thence westerly to Beacon "30" in the Biloxi Channel (exclusive of the Biloxi Channel faul); and thence due south to a point on Deer Island; thence westerly following the north shore of Deer Island to the westernmost tip; thence westerly on the most direct line to the Biloxi Beacon "9"; thence westerly following the meanderings of the shoreline at a distance of one-half mile therefrom to a point one-half mile south of the eastern abutment of the I. & N Railroad Bridge over the Bay of St. Louis; thence westerly at a distance one-half mile from said bridge to a point one-half mile south of the western abutment; thence southwesterly following the meanderings of the shoreline at a distance of one-half mile therefrom to a point one-half mile east of the mouth of Bayou Casotte; thence westerly to the mouth of Bayou Casotte; thence southwesterly following the meanderings of the shoreline to the Mississippi-Louisiana state line, with the exception of the "pipeline ditch" in Hancock County, are hereby declared and ordered open at 12:01 a.m. January 1, 1989 for shrimp season as provided by law and the regulations of this Commission.

The aforementioned "pipeline ditch" shall only be opened to shrimp vessels using a trawl measuring no larger than 18 feet at the cork line and 22 feet at the lead line, and persons shrimp in said "pipeline ditch" shall be limited to a maximum of 25 pounds of shrimp on board the vessel at any time.
Shrimp season in all state waters shall close to shrimp activities except the bait shrimp at midnight, April 30, 1989.
All regulations set forth in ordinances of the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation are to be in full force and effect and all boats engaged in catching or transporting shrimp in or from the waters of the State of Mississippi must be licensed by the Commission before beginning operations.
This order will take effect and be in force from and after 12:01 a.m. on January 1, 1989 and the director of the Bureau of Marine Resources is hereby directed to make publication of this order one time in a newspaper or newspapers having general circulation in the counties affected by this order as provided by law.
Ordered this 18th day of December, 1988.
